

“Problem oriented, evidence based, and theoretically informed, this text sets a benchmark for our understanding of the treatment and management of violent extremism. Academics, practitioners, and policy-makers alike will benefit greatly from this edited collection.” —Paul Gill, University College London

Using France as a case study, contributors from around the world explore the factors that create violent extremists, including criminogenic needs, violence-supportive cognition, religious beliefs, identity uncertainty or fusion, the quest for significance, and social and political influences. They present a multidisciplinary and evidence-based analysis of how and why violent extremism has reappeared as a contemporary issue and provide theoretical and practical approaches to responding and, when possible, intervening, using deradicalization programs, deterrent and preventive legislations, prison segregation, and permanent monitoring.
